New Atlanta Company Claims to Have Perfected Process by Which Paper Can Be Made Out of Cotton Plant Waste

A company has been formed in Atlanta, Ga., which, if the statements made by the promoters are correct, threatens to revolutionize the news print and other paper industries of the world.

Allowing for a due amount of exaggeration the fact remains that a substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper is said to have been discovered and that the new paper will soon be on the market.

The Southern Cotton Stalk Pulp and Paper

Company of Atlanta, Ga., is the name of the organization controlling the patents involved. The concern was recently incorporated with $500,000 capital (5,000 shares at $100 each) and proposes to manufacture and sell all grades of paper from cotton stems, or stalks, cotton seed hulls and other portions of the cotton plant.

The process of manufacture, which is said to be fully protected, is stated to be the outcome of years of research on the part of W. H. Croll, a practical paper manufacturer, who for a number of years was Secretary of a large paper manufacturing concern in Terre Haute, Ind.

Mr. Croll will have active charge of the affairs of the newly organized company and will devote all his time to them.

The cost of producing cotton stalk paper, it is asserted, will be very much less than in the

BIG BLAZE

Prompt and Zealous Work on the Part of Maysville's Efficient Fire Department Stays the Ravages of a Dangerous Fire

It has been some time since this city has been visited with a fire of any magnitude, and that the fire of last night did not succeed in reaching a conflagration stage was solely due to the efficiency and hard work of our ever-faithful and gallant fire fighters.

The fire is said to have started in a shed in Harold Collins' lumber yard in the Fifth Ward, and when discovered was an incipient blaze, but owing to the tinder-like structure spread with fearful rapidity, and although responding promptly, when the Amazon boys arrived on the ground the flames from the burning building could be seen for miles afar and the immediate vicinity was made as light as day.

It was not long until the four fire companies were hard at work and with many streams playing the flames were soon brought under control and the threatened danger of a real conflagration averted.

Fortunately the high winds that almost blew a gale about 4 o'clock had settled to a comparative calm, and the slight breeze stirring was in a southeasterly direction and away from Second street property, though the intense heat caused nearby buildings to catch fire.

At one time Vici Gunn's residence and coalhouse, Gashke & Co.'s Coal Elevators, Jesse Calvert's, Collins' stable and dryhouse and surrounding trees were all burning at the same time, and the outlook was portentous, to say the least. The fire department deserve great credit in confining the fire to a small compass and preventing its spreading.

Mrs. Gunn's loss is placed at $1,200, with an insurance of $1,000 on house and $2,000 on furniture.

Two horses belonging to Mr. Collins were burned to death in the stable. His total loss will reach $2,000, with no insurance.

Gashke & Co.'s loss will amount to $300, covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is not known but is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

MRS. LUCY THOMAS GRAHAM.

Mrs. Lucy Franklin Thomas Graham died at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Ben Lauth, in Ripley, last Thursday night, after a long illness.

Deceased was a daughter of the late William and Sara Thomas and was born near South Ripley, Mason county, Kentucky, May 22d, 1840. Her husband, the late James Graham, died about twelve years ago. Mrs. Graham is the third member of the Thomas family to pass away during the past fifteen months, her brother, the late William Thomas, and her sister, Mrs. Ben Lauth, both of whom died at Ripley.

Mrs. Graham, who was an amiable and excellent woman, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Maplewood Cemetery at Ripley, the Rev. W. W. Hall, an old friend, having charge of the funeral services at her late home.

Only one sister, Mrs. M. N. Terhune of Dover, survives.

The report of the Government in the proceedings against the Standard Oil Company only made 7,000,000 words. Mr. BRYAN turns out that many every month.

If this year's experience were recognized as establishing a precedent the conduct of future Presidential campaigns might be turned over to the correspondence schools.

The Pennsylvania Railroad occupies the foremost position from the standpoint of magnitude of improvements now under way. In the past six years it has planned for the expenditure of $125,000,000 for improvements adjacent to New York City, besides other costly work upon more remote sections of the road.

"If I am elected," says BRYAN, "the public can tell immediately what to expect." Alas, yes!—Boston Transcript.

On the largest tobacco farm in the world, a 25,000-acre affair, near Amsterdam, Ga., is grown about a third of all the Sumatra tobacco used for cigar wrappers in the United States.

Mr. BRYAN insists on an overthrow of the entire system of Protection, thus threatening the dissolution of trade and the most serious disturbance of industry. He seeks not Tariff revision, but Tariff revolution.—Governor Hughes at Youngstown, Ohio.

PECOR

HOLDING HIS OWN.

Copyright, 1908, by the Mail and Express Company.

We have the fight won. All we have to do is to hold what we've got.—W. J. Bryan.

Bryan, the Advocate of Monopoly.

In spite of his theatrical posture as a foe to monopolies William Jennings Bryan is committed to policies that would call into being in the United States a monopoly more powerful and more perilous than the wildest alarmist has ever pictured. His sinister scheme of public ownership, whereby the great trunk lines of railroads should become the property of the federal government and the state railroads the property of the states, is a plot against industrial independence and commercial enterprise in America. It would monopolize and subject to partisan control the transportation service of the whole country and compel the government to go into business as a common carrier. There would be no competition by which rates could be determined, and therefore the cost of the carrying service to the people would be fixed arbitrarily by those at the time being in control of the government.

The chief grievance of the antimoney agitators is that monopolies deprive the people of the benefits of competitive enterprise. Yet here is the noisiest of all agitators boldly advocating a project which would absolutely paralyze the competitive principle in the vital service of transportation for the products of American labor! Has the baleful purpose of Bryanism ever been more clearly disclosed than in this monstrous proposition?

Under the present system the pay of railroad labor is regulated partly by legitimate competition and partly by highly useful organizations of the men thus employed. Public ownership as urged by Mr. Bryan would take from the vast army of railway employees the right to a voice in fixing their wages and transfer it to the government. In a word, the 1,500,000 men engaged in railroad work, who are at present able to insist upon fair treatment in the matter of hours and pay, would absolutely lose their independence and be compelled to accept such terms as a federal or a state administration saw fit to offer. Every change of party control in the legislative or executive branch of government, national or state, would involve the peril of an arbitrary readjustment of wages as well as of transportation rates. Under such conditions business stability would be impossible. The interests of employer and employee alike would be menaced with constant uncertainty. Questions of carrying rates and of wages for railway labor would become issues in party politics, and the government, possessed of a despotic monopoly control over the largest single national interest next to agriculture, would be forced into a permanent attitude of apology and defense.

The American wage earner naturally and justly resents any attempt to restrict his independence or regulate his conduct through the arbitrary exercise of official authority. Yet here in the Bryan scheme of public ownership is the deliberate proposal that 1,500,000 of the most intelligent, progressive and trustworthy of American employees shall be deprived of the right to be heard on questions relating to their wages and shall be obliged to accept such pay as may be prescribed by officials elected through partisan influences. That proposal brands William Jennings Bryan as an advocate of the most atrocious monopoly ever dreamed of by a demagogue or suggested by a tyrant. It is a menace to American industrial independence and stamps its author as a hypocrite and a traitor to the very cause which he pretends to support.

Another of Mr. Bryan's complaints against the Republican party is that it increased the number of officeholders. But his public ownership scheme would transfer upward of 1,500,000 railway employees to the payroll of the government for whose wages the whole body of American taxpayers would be assessed in case the railroad business should prove unprofitable. The logical effect of the Bryan proposal would be to strip railway labor of its independence, vastly increase the number of officeholders and add enormously to the tax burdens of the people. The evil genius of an irresponsible political marplot never conceived a single project so fraught with peril to the general welfare.

The cost to the people of Mr. Bryan's revolutionary programme is, of course, a matter of no consequence whatever to him. He never cares for expenses so long as somebody else pays them. But in view of the fact that the adoption of his scheme would saddle the taxpayers of the country with an additional interest bearing debt of more than $1,000,000,000 the people probably will pause to inquire whether it is worth while to assume so heavy a burden merely to test the nostrums of a spectacular quack whose economic doctrines, like his political sincerity, have been completely impeached by events.

"Taft can tell his own story better than any one else can tell it for him," says the Taunton Gazette in approving the plan for Taft's tour. Yes, and it is a mighty fine story he has to tell.

The rains were general throughout Kentucky and Ohio, breaking the long drought and doing great good to farm and stock.

Just before leaving New York for Chicago Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee said that he had secured $300,000 from the past campaign administration.

II.
What William Randolph Hearst Said In His Speech at Columbus, O., Sept. 17.

"Mr. Roosevelt prosecuted the Standard Oil, and the Standard Oil went out of the Republican party and into the Democratic party. The Democratic party welcomed it. Mr. Bryan appointed C. N. Haskell, political paymaster of the Standard Oil, to be chairman of his committee on platform. After a platform had been drawn up by Mr. Haskell which was satisfactory to the Standard Oil Mr. Bryan made Mr. Haskell treasurer of his national campaign fund to collect from the Standard Oil substantial evidence of the great monopoly's appreciation."

III.
What President Roosevelt Said.

"Governor Haskell stands high in the councils of Mr. Bryan and is the treasurer of his national campaign committee. * * * The publication of this correspondence not merely justifies in striking fashion the action of the administration, but also casts a curious side light on the attacks made upon the administration both in the Denver convention, which nominated Mr. Bryan, and in the course of Mr. Bryan's campaign."

FOREIGN LABORERS

Work Sought in Kentucky By the Bureau of Immigration

The Information Division of the Bureau of Immigration at Washington is distributing 25,000 postal cards throughout Kentucky inquiring about the demand for labor and where immigrants can be located in good jobs.

The circular post-cards are going in batches to all Postmasters in the State with a request that they be divided among the Carriers on rural delivery routes tapping their offices. The Carriers are expected to distribute the cards among the patrons they serve, whose families number 100,000 or so.

In this way it is hoped to get in touch with the farmers who want hands on their places and thus scatter aliens where they are wanted instead of having them continue to congregate in the large cities.

This plan has produced satisfactory results in the Northern and Middle Western States and it will be extended to the entire South.

Relatives and friends in this city have been apprised of the sudden death of Mr. Major Sanford, which occurred Sunday at his home in Louisville. The deceased married Miss Martha Ransom, daughter of Mr. F. B. Ransom of Pittsburgh, and granddaughter of Mrs. William W. Baldwin of the county. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Interment at Louisville.

Yesterday noon while shooting at a target near the Maysville Cemetery, George Moore, a 15-year-old colored lad, was accidentally shot in the shoulder by his companion, Charles Green. Just as Green discharged his 22 flobert rifle Moore, who standing near the target board, raised up and received the contents in the right shoulder. The wound is painful but is not considered dangerous. The shooting was purely accidental.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Maysville readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. John E. Burns, living in the Western part of Maysville, Ky., says:

"I value Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as when I gave a statement in their favor some years ago. Prior to their use I was subject to frequent attacks of kidney trouble. At times the pain in my back was so acute that I was rendered almost helpless and confined to my bed for days at a time. The quick and decided relief I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at J. J. Wood & Son's Drugstore, was very gratifying, and during the years which have elapsed I have had no serious return of kidney trouble. On some occasions I have felt a slight backache, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to ward off any serious trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
